This seems to be a money thing to me. If the NAB has all of this money to lobby etc. with why don't they spend it improving their radio stations instead of whining about XM? I think competition is good. We pay for the XM services because they provide us with what we want when we want it. There are a lot more important things the legislators need to be taking care of. It's my opinion people need to keep their noses out of other peoples business and take care of their own.
